After You Apply for Affordable Housing:

Checklists and Resources

Checklist & Resources

ABOUT THIS GUIDE

Affordable housing applications are selected for review through a lottery process. If your application is selected and you appear to qualify for an apartment, you will be invited to an interview. That interview is to figure out if you are eligible for affordable housing.

Interviews are usually scheduled from two to ten months after the application deadline. You will be asked to bring in documents about who will be living with you, how much money the household makes, your current apartment, and other information.

This guide helps you prepare for the interview. It lists the documents you may need to bring and offers tips on how to find and prepare the copies you need.

Household Documents

If you are contacted for an interview, you will be asked to bring COPIES of documents that verify the people in your household. Please do not bring original documents, unless asked. Copies of these documents will remain on file – you will not get them back.

The developer will let you know which documents you are required to bring with you. All of the items below may be required.

DO YOU HAVE THESE DOCUMENTS?

Current Apartment

- Copy of your current lease, if you rent your own apartment. If you do not have a lease, a notarized letter from your landlord.

- Copies of your most recent electric and gas bills (in your name and showing your current address).
- Copy of your most recent telephone bill (in your name and showing your current address).
- If you do not rent your own apartment and you are living with someone else, bring a notarized letter from your housemate along with a copy of their lease and copies of their utility bills.

Income Documents

Your household's annual income is the "gross amount" earned by everyone over 18 who lives with you. "Gross amount" means what you were paid by your employer before taxes. Your gross income is usually more than your take-home pay. (Note: If you're self-employed, you report your net income after deductions.)

Collect as much documentation as you can. The IRS says the documents below are acceptable proof of income. Provide income documents for every household member over 18.

Eligibility Problems

You should document any problems you've had with your past landlords or with your credit. Even with these documents, there is no guarantee that you will be eligible for an apartment. Your application could still be rejected, even with good documentation.

- Satisfactions filed with court

Past Credit Problems

How is your credit history?

If you are selected for an interview, your credit can be a factor in the decision-making process. The credit history required for each development is set by the building developer.
